What's New At Dyed In The Wool

A lot has happened in the world since our last newsletter. As of Friday around Noon we closed our doors until we are given the all clear to open again.

Enforced hibernation is not natural for any of us but in many ways this has given me a chance to reflect on what is important to me and appreciate the good fortune and many blessings that I have.

I would like to thank Amanda for getting her amazing Hat Box yarn to us ready to distribute for the Waits Sweater. Included in the boxes she sent were a few extra skeins of Hat Box that we will use to celebrate our reopening with our customers. Thank you Amanda for your generosity and kindness. Lynda and I are already planning the celebrations.

We will be posting daily on Ravelry. You will see some new Forum topics emerge regarding Stash, Projects, Ideas and Hints. Feel free to jump in. You might even get to ask the forbidden question:

What can I do with .....?

I am currently working on a new MKAL that I hope to have ready for Wednesday. If you are interested in joining the MKAL please send me an email so that I can forward the first clue to you when it is ready.

Before we closed Kim brought in a market bag that she made with 1 skein of Louet's Euroflax. The pattern is a free Ravelry download called Ilene Bag by Hannah Mason. So, if you have a spare skein of Euroflax or approximately 274 yards of a cotton, linen or linen/cotton sport weight yarn you are good to go. Kim said this was a very nice pattern to make. This would also make a great gift. With our grocery stores not wanting us to use plastic this is a very pretty alternative. Did I mention that Euroflax is machine washable and dryable?

There are many fun little projects out there that take one or two balls or combinations of yarn. Lately, since I knitted the Mini Solutions Two pattern by Kelene Kinnersly I have become obsessed by this simple little scarf. They are a really useful shape.

I also liked making and wearing Sand Dunes by Baah Yarn which was quick to knit and has become a real go to scarf.

The pattern for the Mini Solutions called for Fingering and Sand Dunes is worked in a Sport Weight Yarn.

On the Ravelry Forum when we ask the question "What is in your stash"? we are asking so that we can help you make use of what is already in your closet, under the bed, stuffed into pillows, you know what I mean.

2pm Knitting Class on Saturdays

We plan to keep this class in place at least through April (May if we don't open in April).

Waits Sweater On Hold

Some of you have already picked up your yarn for the Waits Sweater while others have to wait to see theirs. I am really anxious to get this class started.

A few of you already took your first class but we didn't have time to get the second class in, so if you took the first class we will be holding a free refresher class to cover all the material that you may want to brush up on or have forgotten.

Once we get the all clear we will quickly reschedule the Waits classes and get this project started.
