What's In & Expected

The September Color of the Month from Baah has arrived and it is sparkling. I can't think of a better word, sorry. You have to see this yarn.

Smoochy Color of the Month will be returning starting in September but hasn't arrived yet. So excited.

From Circulo we have more worsted weight cotton that will be perfect for Market Bags and heavier washcloths. I have brought in a new viscose yarn called Sugar Cane. This is a brand new yarn and it is made from sugar cane. Very soft, tons of drape.

New colors of Cumbria have arrived along with a favorite that was missing for a couple of seasons. Yes, Nutkin is back.

On a sad note, Canopy Fingering is discontinued. This is a lovely, sensationally soft yarn in great colors. I made the Cairngorm Peaks scarf using only one ball. I think that I would like to make it again but this time making it longer and using two full balls. It is really great against the skin.

This is the perfect time of year to go through your closet and pull out those forgotten scarves and shawls and block them so they are ready for the cooler weather that will eventually arrive. I have selected the next two items I will be blocking: the Graphic Kerchief and Mini Solutions Two. I think that Meadowsweet will be following shortly behind. I had forgotten how much I love these three accessories and am looking forward to a few cool mornings so that I can wear them again. A Mini Solutions Two in Canopy! There's a thought.

Save The Date

I am currently planning two separate but fun events that will take place in November. On the evening of November 12th there will be a benefit and on November 13th we will be spinning for a whole day and maybe even another fleece to scarf will be in the mix. Details will follow shortly. I will be creating a space on the Ravelry Dyed In The Wool Forum and will update this post as details become available.

Market Bags

I have been working on a Market Bag that will have strong handles that won't stretch too much but still be easy to carry. I will be recommending the Circulo Cotton that just arrived and please join me as I teach this fun project. There will be some interesting details and skills that will also be applicable in some other projects.

Spin In

Join me as we spend an afternoon spinning. Let me know if you are bringing a wheel or a drop spindle so that I can set the chairs so that everyone has enough room. There may be some interesting fiber to try too so even if you are bringing a wheel you might want to tuck a spindle in your bag.

Dates To Note:

Market Bag - Sept. 10th
Spin In - Sept. 24th
Save The Dates - Evening, Nov. 12th
Spin In and maybe Fleece to Scarf - Nov. 13th
